

Eduard Montanya

Member of the IMI Scientific Committee

Membership or presidency of other boards

Eduard Montanya is a Senior Professor of Medicine at the University of Barcelona, Head of the Diabetes Section of Bellvitge University Hospital, Coordinator of the Diabetes and Metabolism Research Program at IDIBELL, and Scientific Director of CIBERDEM. Dr. Montanya obtained his MD and PhD from the University of Barcelona. Following his PhD, he was awarded a Fulbright grant and undertook a postdoctoral fellowship at Joslin Diabetes Centre at Harvard Medical School, Boston, USA. His research has focused on pancreatic islets, with a particular interest in the regulation of beta cell mass, cell therapy and regenerative medicine in diabetes, as well as new pharmacological treatments for diabetes. He has authored more than 150 scientific papers, advised several leading institutions nationally and internationally, and has carried out scientific review for the main societies and scientific journals in diabetes.

Previous positions

- Associate Professor, University of Barcelona
- Endocrinologist, Hospital Bellvitge
- Postdoctoral Fellow in Medicine, Harvard Medical School
- Endocrinologist, Ciutat Sanitària i Universitària Bellvitge
- Internal Resident in Endocrinology, Ciutat Sanitària i Universitària Bellvitge

Fields of expertise

- New therapies in diabetes
- Clinical diabetes
- Cell therapy and regenerative medicine in diabetes
- Regulation of pancreatic beta cell mass